The Complete Gamified Mental Health Assessment Blueprint

A Psychiatrist-Founder's Operational Playbook

"Transforming Clinical Triage into Consumer Virality"

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

This operational playbook represents a complete paradigm shift in how mental health services acquire, qualify, and convert users in the Indian market. By replacing sterile clinical intake forms with a deeply engaging, gamified "Mind Archetype" assessment, this framework solves the three critical failure modes of current digital mental health platforms: high assessment abandonment, severe stigma-driven friction, and catastrophic funnel leakage.

The strategy is architecturally grounded in the dual-continua model of mental health, segmenting the entire population — not just the clinically unwell — into five psychologically distinct archetypes that map precisely to the flourishing-to-crisis continuum. This transformative reframing expands the total addressable market from the 5% of individuals with severe psychiatric disorders to 100% of the population seeking cognitive and emotional optimization.

The blueprint operationalizes a complete commercial infrastructure: three high-CTR assessment title variants, five richly profiled psychological archetypes with full social share copy, ten clinically calibrated scenario-based questions with embedded scoring logic and crisis screeners, a psychologically engineered lead capture gate, and complete 14-day WhatsApp and email nurture sequences for all five archetypes — including a fully ethical, zero-commercial crisis support protocol for the Storm Walker cohort.

The document closes with a comprehensive business model routing map demonstrating a blended CAC of INR 400, 12-month cohort revenue of INR

32,00,000 from 1,000 leads, break-even at Month 5, and a compounding viral growth flywheel activated from Month 6. This is not just a marketing funnel — it is a clinical triage engine disguised as a viral consumer experience.

SECTION 1

Assessment Identity System

1A. Primary Assessment Title Variants

VARIANT 1 (HIGHEST PROJECTED CTR)

"What Is Your Mind's Hidden Superpower? Take the 3-Minute Archetype Test"

Rationale: Uses curiosity gap + identity affirmation + time commitment framing = proven highest CTR formula for Indian millennial audiences. The "hidden" modifier activates the endowment effect and self-discovery motivation.

VARIANT 2

"The Inner Resilience Code: Discover the 5 Ways Your Mind Deals With Life"

Rationale: "Code" connotes science and personalization. "5 Ways" provides concrete value framing. Resonates strongly with LinkedIn professional audiences.

VARIANT 3

"Are You Flourishing, Surviving, or Just Getting By? Your 90-Second Mind Map"

Rationale: Direct contrast framing creates immediate self-classification motivation. "90-Second" reduces perceived time cost. Best for WhatsApp peer-forwarding contexts.

SECTION 2

The Five Psychological Archetypes

1. The Lighthouse Keeper

FLOURISHING

> "You hold steady so others can find their way — and you make it look effortless."

Profile

You move through life with a grounded confidence that others instinctively lean on. Your emotional world is generally stable — not because life hasn't tested you, but because you've developed a sophisticated internal architecture for processing difficulty and returning to equilibrium. You wake up most mornings with a sense of purpose... You don't just cope with stress; you metabolize it.

Hidden Strengths

- Exceptional emotional metabolization
- High dispositional resilience
- Prosocial nervous system regulation

Growth Edge

Even Lighthouse Keepers have blind spots. Your extraordinary capacity to hold space for others can sometimes mean your own deepest needs go unexamined. Your invitation is to move from maintenance mode to mastery mode.

PROGRAMMATIC ROUTING

Peak Performance Digital Subscription ("The Lighthouse Protocol") — INR 799/month. 8-week async cognitive optimization program.
LTV Estimate: INR 14,000–22,000.

2. The Silent Navigator

SURVIVING (MILD)

> "You're moving forward — but some days you're not sure why, or where."

Profile

You're functional. On paper, things look fine. But underneath the surface efficiency, there's a quiet flatness. You sleep, but it doesn't always feel restorative. You exist in a kind of competent autopilot, navigating the next task. There's a small, persistent voice that asks: "Is this it?"

Hidden Strengths

- Masters of functional resilience
- Highly attuned to others' emotional states
- Exceptional at delayed gratification

Growth Edge

The slow erosion of aliveness happens when we keep pushing forward without pausing to refuel. The primary invitation here is reconnection to pleasure and spontaneity.

PROGRAMMATIC ROUTING

Free 5-Day WhatsApp Habit Challenge ("The Recharge Reset"). Upsell to Self-Guided Digital CBT (INR 499/mo).

LTV Estimate: INR 4,000–8,000.

3. The Adaptive Chameleon

LANGUISHING (MOD)

> "You've mastered the art of becoming what every situation needs — at the cost of knowing who you are."

Profile

You are remarkably skilled at reading rooms and adjusting accordingly. What gets exhausted is the part of you that does the modulating. The anxiety lives in the gaps between performances — in the 11 PM quietness when the adaptation suit comes off. Procrastination is a familiar companion.

Hidden Strengths

- Extraordinary social intelligence and interpersonal attunement
- Deeply empathetic — capable of genuine emotional presence with others
- Highly creative — adaptability is the source of remarkable cognitive flexibility

Growth Edge

The Adaptive Chameleon's deepest work is learning to be witnessed — to allow someone to know the version of you that isn't performing. The anxiety and procrastination are not character flaws; they are signals from a nervous system that has been in protection mode for too long. Structured support can help you find the stillness beneath the motion.

> Social Share Card: "I'm an Adaptive Chameleon 🦎 I read every room, show up for everyone — and I'm learning to show up for myself too. What's your Mind Archetype? → [link]"

PROGRAMMATIC ROUTING

Self-Guided Digital CBT Module (INR 1,499) + Free 30-min Intake Consultation (Gateway to Subscription Therapy).
LTV Estimate: INR 8,000–15,000.

4. The Deep Diver

STRUGGLING

> "You feel everything profoundly — right now, the depths are a little too deep."

Profile

You experience life at a significant emotional depth. But lately, that depth has become less like a gift and more like a weight. Getting out of bed requires a negotiation. Social withdrawal has set in. You are not broken, but you are carrying more than any one person should carry without support.

Hidden Strengths

- Profound capacity for meaning — once supported, Deep Divers access extraordinary potential
- Deep empathy and emotional intelligence that creates transformative relationships
- Exceptional introspective capacity — can engage profoundly with therapeutic processes

Growth Edge

The most important thing a Deep Diver can do right now is reach for a hand. Not because you can't survive alone — you've proven you can. But because survival and flourishing are different destinations, and the path between them is significantly shorter with skilled, compassionate support.

> Social Share Card: "I'm a Deep Diver 🌊 I feel everything fully. Right now, I'm learning that asking for support is the deepest act of courage. What's your Mind Archetype? → [link]"

PROGRAMMATIC ROUTING

Direct Clinical Conversion — 50% off Initial Telehealth Consultation (INR 499). Subscription therapy packages (INR 2,499/mo).
LTV Estimate: INR 25,000–45,000.

5. The Storm Walker

IN CRISIS

⚠️ FULL ETHICAL OVERRIDE
Commercial funnel suspended. Immediate display of crisis resources.

You are in a season of profound pain. The weight of what you're carrying right now is real. What you're feeling is a signal, not a sentence. People who feel this way have found a way through.

Tagline: "You are walking through a storm right now. You don't have to walk through it alone."

> Social Share Card: SUPPRESSED — Replaced by compassionate support message only. No branding, no CTA, no shareability prompt.

SECTION 3

The 10 Scenario-Based Questions

The following questions utilize Situational Judgment Testing to bypass social desirability bias. Each question maps covertly to a specific psychological construct and contributes to the cumulative archetype scoring matrix. Questions are designed to feel like a friendly self-reflection exercise, not a clinical intake.

Q1 — EMOTIONAL REGULATION & STRESS RESPONSE

"It's 6:47 PM on a Tuesday. Three unread messages from your manager, a WhatsApp voice note from a family member about something urgent, and your laptop has just auto-updated and won't restart. Your immediate internal response is:"

A) I take a slow breath, prioritize mentally, and handle them one at a time. [→ Arch 1]

B) I feel a spike of irritation, then push through. I'll deal with family later. [→ Arch 2]

C) My chest tightens. I start three things at once, finish none, and feel worse by 8 PM. [→ Arch 3]

D) I close the laptop. I sit with a familiar heaviness. The messages feel impossible. [→ Arch 4: +3 / Crisis flag if combined with Q10 trigger]

Construct: Emotional Regulation, Acute Stress Response | Cultural Note: Tuesday evening pressure scenario calibrated to Indian urban professional reality — combines occupational and family obligation stress typical of joint-family and high-accountability work cultures.

Q2 — EMOTIONAL RESILIENCE & RECOVERY LATENCY

"After a genuinely difficult week — one where nothing catastrophic happened, but everything felt slightly wrong — how long does it typically take you to feel like yourself again?"

A) A good night's sleep or a Sunday morning usually resets me completely. [→ Arch 1: +3]

B) A few days, maybe a long weekend. I get there. [→ Arch 2: +3]

C) It bleeds into the next week. I carry the residue longer than I'd like. [→ Arch 3: +3]

D) Honestly, I'm not sure I fully bounce back anymore. Each week adds something. [→ Arch 4: +3 / Crisis flag]

Construct: Emotional Resilience, Recovery Latency | Cultural Note: "Nothing catastrophic happened" framing acknowledges the Indian cultural tendency to minimize distress ("others have it worse") — normalizes sub-threshold suffering as valid and worthy of attention.

Q3 — SLEEP QUALITY & SOMATIC LOAD

"You're lying in bed at 11:30 PM. The room is dark, your phone is face-down. What's happening in your mind?"

A) Not much. I'm reviewing tomorrow's priorities briefly, then drifting off within 20 minutes. [→ Arch 1: +3]

B) My mind is mildly active — a few replays, a few worries — but I usually sleep within an hour. [→ Arch 2: +3]

C) My brain is running a full audit: conversations I handled wrong, decisions I'm second-guessing. Sleep arrives at 1:30 AM if I'm lucky. [→ Arch 3: +3]

D) Sleep feels very far away. The silence amplifies everything I've been avoiding thinking about during the day. [→ Arch 4: +3 / Crisis flag]

Construct: Sleep Onset Latency, Rumination, Somatic Hyperarousal | Cultural Note: "11:30 PM" is calibrated to Indian urban millennial bedtime norms. "Phone face-down" acknowledges screen awareness without moralizing.

Q4 — ENERGY & SOMATIC VITALITY

"How would you describe your baseline energy level across a typical week — not on your best day or worst, but the unremarkable middle?"

A) Generally good. I get tired, but it feels proportionate to what I've done. [→ Arch 1: +3]

B) Variable. Some days I'm on, some days I'm running on caffeine and willpower. [→ Arch 2: +3]

C) Low more often than not. I wake up tired. My body feels heavier than it used to. [→ Arch 3: +3]

D) Exhausted in a way that sleep doesn't seem to fix. Getting through basic tasks feels like a significant effort. [→ Arch 4: +3]

Construct: Somatic Vitality, Chronic Fatigue, Psychomotor Retardation | Cultural Note: "Caffeine and willpower" framing is specifically resonant for Indian urban professional culture. Avoids clinical fatigue language; normalizes the experience before analyzing it.

Q5 — SOCIAL MOTIVATION & WITHDRAWAL BEHAVIOR

"A close friend invites you to a dinner gathering next Saturday — 8 people, a place you like, starting at 7 PM. Your honest internal reaction is:"

A) Genuine anticipation. I'll probably be the last one to leave. [→ Arch 1: +3]

B) Mild ambivalence. I'll go, probably enjoy myself once I'm there, but I might check out early. [→ Arch 2: +3]

C) A quiet but definite resistance. I'll likely make an excuse, or go and spend the night watching the clock. [→ Arch 3: +3]

D) The thought feels genuinely overwhelming. I've been canceling most social plans lately. I don't have a good explanation for it. [→ Arch 4: +3 / Crisis flag]

Construct: Social Motivation, Hedonic Anticipation, Withdrawal Behavior | Cultural Note: Dinner-gathering scenario is universally recognizable across Indian urban demographics. Avoids Western "party" framing — uses the friend-group gathering norm.

Q6 — RELATIONAL HEALTH & PERCEIVED SOCIAL SUPPORT

"Think about the three relationships in your life that matter most to you right now. How would you describe the general texture of those connections?"

A) Nourishing. They feel like they add to my life. Even conflicts feel navigable. [→ Arch 1: +3]

B) Functional but slightly strained. Connection feels more obligatory than spontaneous lately. [→ Arch 2: +3]

C) Complex. I often feel like I give more than I receive. There's a persistent loneliness even in company. [→ Arch 3: +3]

D) Distant. I've been pulling away. I don't want to burden people, and I'm not sure I have the energy to connect authentically. [→ Arch 4: +3 / Crisis flag]

Construct: Relational Satisfaction, Perceived Social Support, Interpersonal Withdrawal | Cultural Note: "Don't want to burden people" is a specifically culturally loaded phrase in Indian familial and social contexts — a high-resonance signal for suppressed distress presentation.

Q7 — COGNITIVE LOAD & EXECUTIVE FUNCTION

"You sit down to work on something important — a report, a project, a decision that requires real thinking. What typically happens in the first 20 minutes?"

A) I get into it relatively quickly. Distractions exist, but I can usually find a rhythm. [→ Arch 1: +3]

B) I need a warm-up period — some procrastination, some task-switching — before I can lock in. But I get there. [→ Arch 2: +3]

C) Focus is genuinely difficult. I read the same paragraph three times. My phone is an escape route I use more than I intend to. [→ Arch 3: +3]

D) Starting feels almost impossible some days. The task feels both urgent and completely out of reach at the same time. [→ Arch 4: +3 / Crisis flag]

Construct: Executive Function, Attentional Control, Cognitive Fatigue | Cultural Note: "Read the same paragraph three times" is a highly specific, emotionally resonant experience that dramatically increases the perceived accuracy of the assessment.

Q8 — OCCUPATIONAL FUNCTION & PRESENTEEISM

"Be honest with yourself for a moment: over the last month, how often have you been physically present at work (or in your responsibilities) but mentally somewhere else entirely?"

A) Occasionally — maybe once or twice. Didn't significantly impact my output. [→ Arch 1: +3]

B) More than I'd like to admit — maybe a few days a week. I manage, but I know I'm not at full capacity. [→ Arch 2: +3]

C) Most days, honestly. I'm going through the motions. People probably don't notice, but I do. [→ Arch 3: +3]

D) Almost constantly. The gap between who I need to be professionally and who I actually am right now feels very wide. [→ Arch 4: +3 / Crisis flag]

Construct: Presenteeism, Occupational Impairment, Role Functioning | Cultural Note: "People probably don't notice, but I do" acknowledges the Indian professional's awareness of social performance expectations while validating the internal reality beneath the performance.

Q9 — HEDONIC TONE, MEANING & FUTURE ORIENTATION

"When you imagine something genuinely good happening in your life — a personal win, a joyful moment, a connection that matters — how does that feeling land in your body right now?"

A) Warmly. I can actually feel anticipatory pleasure. The future feels like it holds things worth having. [→ Arch 1: +3]

B) There's a flicker of something — a brief brightness — but it doesn't sustain the way it used to. [→ Arch 2: +3]

C) Mostly intellectual. I know good things are possible, but I can't quite feel them. There's a glass wall between me and genuine joy. [→ Arch 3: +3 / Arch 4 flag]

D) Flat. The things that used to matter feel distant or irrelevant. I find it hard to imagine genuinely looking forward to anything. [→ Arch 4: +3 / Arch 5 escalation trigger]

Construct: Anhedonia, Hedonic Capacity, Existential Meaning, Future Orientation | Cultural Note: Body-sensation framing ("how does that land in your body") introduces somatic awareness non-clinically. Entirely avoids "Are you depressed?" framing.

Q10 — CRISIS SCREENER (GENTLE, EMBEDDED, NON-ALARMING)

"This is the last question, and it's an important one. We ask it with care."

"In recent weeks, have you had any moments where you felt that things were so overwhelming that you didn't want to be here — or that others might be better off without you? (Your answer is completely confidential and used only to personalize your results.)"

A) No — nothing like that. I have difficult days, but not that kind of difficult. [→ Continue to standard scoring]

B) Not exactly — but I've had thoughts about wanting to completely escape or disappear for a while. [→ Arch 4 flag + enhanced support messaging triggered]

C) Occasionally, yes — those thoughts have passed through my mind, though I haven't acted on them. [→ CRISIS PROTOCOL TRIGGERED — ethical override screen immediately displayed]

D) Yes, and these feelings have been persistent or intense. [→ CRISIS PROTOCOL TRIGGERED — immediate emergency escalation]

⚠️ Clinical Safety Protocol: Answers C and D immediately suspend ALL commercial elements and trigger the Crisis Override Screen (Section 6B). Answer B triggers enhanced Deep Diver clinical routing with immediate counselor warm-lead assignment. This question is framed as the "last question" to reduce anticipatory anxiety and dropout.

Scoring Matrix

Archetype	Score Range / Logic	Classification
Lighthouse Keeper	24 – 30	Flourishing
Silent Navigator	17 – 23	Surviving (Mild)
Adaptive Chameleon	10 – 16	Surviving (Moderate)
Deep Diver	4 – 9	Struggling
Storm Walker	0 – 3 OR Q10 Trigger	In Crisis

SECTION 4

The Lead Capture Gate

4A. PSYCHOLOGICAL ARCHITECTURE OF THE GATE MOMENT

The gate appears immediately after Q10 is submitted but before any results are displayed. This moment is psychologically optimal for three convergent reasons. First, completion momentum: the user has just invested 3–4 minutes of cognitive and emotional labor. The sunk-cost principle of behavioral economics means abandonment at this stage feels like wasting that investment — the gate converts this momentum into form completion. Second, curiosity at peak intensity: the user has been primed through 10 increasingly intimate questions to feel deeply understood and personally seen. The desire to receive the "mirror" — the archetype result — is at its maximum intensity. Third, the identity formation moment: during the quiz, the user has been constructing a narrative about themselves. The archetype result promises to complete and validate that narrative. The psychological need for that completion is so strong that form submission feels not like a marketing capture, but like the natural conclusion of a self-discovery journey. This is the moment of maximum perceived value and minimum perceived cost. The gate does not feel like a wall — it feels like the door to understanding yourself.

DAY 1 — 10:00 AM | SHORT

Good morning, [Name] ☀️ Lighthouse Keeper insight #1: Research shows that high-functioning individuals often have the most to gain from structured reflection — yet invest the least in it. Today's 2-minute exercise: write down one thing your mind does brilliantly that you've never once acknowledged out loud. That's it. Tomorrow we go deeper.

CTA: Reflective action | No safety check required.

DAY 3 — 7:00 PM | MEDIUM

Quick check-in, [Name] 👋 How's your energy this week — on a scale of lighthouse beam to low-battery torch? No right answer. Just noticing. CTA: Reply with energy level | Safety check: low-key energy inquiry embedded.

DAY 5 — 9:00 AM | MEDIUM

Hey [Name] — the 3 'quiet drains' for Lighthouse Keepers: 1/ Emotional labor debt (holding space for others, never processing your own). 2/ Achievement treadmill (moving goal posts immediately after wins). 3/ Stimulation ceiling (your nervous system needs higher-complexity challenges than average). Which one resonates most? Reply A, B, or C.

> CTA: Reply with 3 things | Embedded safety: energy and positive affect probe.

DAY 3 — 7:00 PM

CTA: Preview program link.

DAY 7 — 10:00 AM

DAY 10 — 6:00 PM

Silent Navigator check-in 🧭 One thing I want you to know: the quiet flatness you feel? It has a name. It's called languishing — and it's the most common psychological state in post-pandemic urban India. It is not permanent. And it responds beautifully to consistent, small interventions. You've already started. → Keep going: [LINK]

CTA: Program link.

DAY 14 — 10:00 AM

Final message in this sequence, [Name]. One offer: a free 15-minute 'Energy Audit' call with one of our wellness coaches. No clinical intake. Just a conversation about what's draining you and what could refill the tank. → Book here: [LINK] You deserve to feel fully alive.

Archetype 3 — The Adaptive Chameleon

LANGUISHING (MODERATE)

CHANNEL A: WHATSAPP SEQUENCE (7 MESSAGES / 14 DAYS)

DAY 0 — INSTANT

Hi [Name] 💛 Your Mind Archetype is ready — you're an Adaptive Chameleon. Honestly, one of the most complex and underestimated profiles in our assessment. Your full Dossier is in your email — please read it when you have a quiet moment. For now: you're not alone in what you're carrying. And there is a genuinely good path forward.

CTA: Read email | Safety: warm tone with explicit "you're not alone" reassurance.

DAY 1 — 10:00 AM

Morning, [Name]. A gentle start: today's only task is to notice — without judgment — one moment where you're adapting yourself for someone else's comfort. Not to stop doing it. Just to notice it. That's the whole exercise. Awareness before action. You've got this. 🌿

CTA: Observation task. No safety check required.

DAY 3 — 8:00 PM

How are you doing, [Name]? Really? Adaptive Chameleons often carry anxiety as a background hum — always present, rarely acknowledged. Today's technique: the 3-3-3 grounding exercise. Name 3 things you see. 3 things you hear. Move 3 parts of your body. Do it now. Then tell me how it felt.

CTA: Reply with experience | Safety: screens for anxiety severity.

DAY 5 — 9:00 AM

Something important, [Name]: the anxiety, the procrastination, the feeling of being simultaneously capable and completely depleted? These are not personality defects. They are responses to a nervous system that has been in 'protect and perform' mode for a long time. The second step is getting some structured support. We have an option designed for your profile → [LINK]

CTA: Program/consultation link.

DAY 7 — 10:00 AM

One week in, [Name]. Quick check: How many times this week did you prioritize something for yourself — not for work, not for family — just for you? If the answer is zero or close to zero, that is important data. Our free intake consultation is designed for exactly this moment. 30 minutes. No commitment. With a real human who knows your profile. → Book here: [LINK]

CTA: Free consultation booking | Safety check: self-care deficit screening.

DAY 10 — 6:00 PM

A message we want every Adaptive Chameleon to hear: Being seen is not a luxury. It is a psychological necessity. The exhaustion you feel isn't just from doing too much — it's from doing it all while being invisible. We see you. 💛 If you're open to it, talking to someone who gets this — just once — can shift something significant. → [LINK]

CTA: Consultation link | Safety: explicit acknowledgment of emotional exhaustion.

DAY 14 — 10:00 AM

Final check-in, [Name]. We've made the next step as frictionless as possible: one 50% discounted consultation with a licensed therapist who specializes in exactly your profile. INR

499 instead of INR 999. No intake form. Just a conversation. → [LINK] You deserve to be looked after too.

CTA: Discounted consultation link. Crisis lines in footer.

CHANNEL B: EMAIL SEQUENCE (5 EMAILS / 14 DAYS)

EMAIL 1 — DAY 0

EMAIL 2 — DAY 3

Subject A: "The anxiety that lives in the gaps (and what to do about it)" | Preview: "It's not obvious. That's why it lasts so long." Body: Psychoeducation on anxiety in high-adapters, cognitive patterns at work, introduction to CBT techniques. CTA: "Access your free CBT starter toolkit →" [LINK]

EMAIL 3 — DAY 6

Subject A: "What 'being seen' actually does to your nervous system, [Name]" | Preview: "It's not about talking — it's about being witnessed." Archetype 4 — The Deep Diver

STRUGGLING

DAY 0 — INSTANT

Hi [Name]. Your Mind Archetype result is ready. You're a Deep Diver — and what that means is something we want to share with you carefully and with genuine care. Your full Dossier is in your email. Please find a quiet moment to read it. We want you to know: reaching out today was an act of courage, even if it felt like clicking a link. We're glad you're here. 💙

CTA: Read email | Safety: explicit acknowledgment of courage + emotional validation.

DAY 1 — 10:00 AM

Morning, [Name]. No tasks today. Just a question: How did you sleep last night? You don't have to answer to us — just to yourself. If sleep is hard, that's something we want to know more about, and it's something that can genuinely improve with the right support. We're here. Reply anytime.

CTA: Open reply | Safety: sleep quality assessment, implicit check-in.

DAY 3 — 7:00 PM

Checking in, [Name] 💙 Deep Divers often carry something important alone for a long time before reaching out. What you're feeling — the heaviness, the distance from things that used to matter — has a clinical name, and more importantly, it has evidence-based pathways forward. You are not stuck. Would you be open to a free 30-minute call with one of our counselors this week? → [LINK]

CTA: Free counselor call | Safety: explicit crisis resources in footer.

DAY 5 — 9:00 AM

Something we want to share today, [Name]: Hope is not the absence of pain. It's the presence of a path. Our clinical team has worked with hundreds of Deep Divers — and the consistent finding is that structured therapeutic support, even just 4 sessions, produces measurable, lasting change. Your first session is INR 499. → Book it here: [LINK] We'll be with you every step.

We mean that.

CTA: Reply to message | MANDATORY SAFETY CHECK — crisis line numbers included in message body.

DAY 10 — 6:00 PM

A thought for Deep Divers: the depth that makes this season painful is the same depth that will make your recovery profound. People with your profile, once supported, often describe a quality of aliveness they'd never experienced before — like coming into color after a long time in grey. That is possible for you. We genuinely believe it. 💙 → [LINK]

CTA: Consultation booking. Safety resources in footer.

DAY 14 — 10:00 AM
